COAL COMMITTEE MEETS WITH MAYOR WELSH TONIGHT TO ORGANIZE AND DISCUSS LOCAL FUEL SITUATION

RAPIDLY DIMINISHING AMOUNT OF COMMODITY ON HAND INDICATES DRASIC STEPS FOR CON-SERVATION WILL HAVE TO BE TAKEN.

Proposals to place Janesville's retail stores upon a 7-hour daily operating basis and to curtail the use of fuel in non-essential industries may be acted upon tonight at a special meeting of Mayor T. E. Welsh's newly appointed advisory coal committee. The meeting will be held in the mayor's office at the city hall beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Drastic steps are expected to be taken to conserve the city's present scanty coal supply. A discussion of methods to properly apportion all coal as it is received within the next few weeks will also feature the meeting.

Mayor Issues Call

The call for the gathering to cope with the emergency was issued today by Mayor Welsh who had learned the growing seriousness of the situation. Throughout the morning he was besieged with urgent calls for fuel. Twenty-five families in the city are pressing need of coal according to Ald. W. W. Menzies' list today. Scores of houses and business establishments are expected to be in dire need of coal within a week.

One pound of fuel was received by one of the nine local dealers today, a canvas revealed. A few of them remain hopeful that several carloads will arrive this week.

Officials of the beet sugar factory scurried around the plant in an effort to secure enough coal to avoid a shutdown. It was hoped to obtain sufficient supply this afternoon to tide the factory over until tomorrow when several carloads are expected to arrive from Milwaukee.

Special Circular Issued.

The Milwaukee Iron Works needs coal at once in order to carry on construction of the Jackson street bridge; the Du Pont, Samson, and J. P. Cullen companies are clamoring for fuel. The Golden Eagle, which is being built, was given a "hand-to-mouth" basis from day to day while the Myers' building in which are located the club rooms of the K. C. and the Elks, the Myers theater, Chamber of Commerce, and retail stores cannot be heated and retain heat unless more coal is carried to the city hall has 10 days' supply left.

The electric company has been particularly fortunate in getting fuel and prospects are bright for continued operation of all its plants. With 14 days' supply in the bins, four car-loads on side-track, and five more in the yards which arrived today, the company is well supplied for several weeks, although P. H. Kortz asks for continued conservation of electric power.

Mackensen Given Great Ovation on Return to Berlin

(By Associated Press.) Berlin, Dec. 4.—W. M. Mackensen, former service man, is in an army hospital here today, receiving treatment for wounds suffered, he said, at the hands of a Mexican policeman at Mexicali, in Lower California, across the boundary from here.

Milton was brought to this side of the border late yesterday, after being detained since November 8, virtually without medical treatment.

Milton said he was arrested in Mexico on charges of being a spy. When he broke away from his captors, he ran toward the American side of the line. The policeman pursued him, he said, beat and kicked him into insensibility, and left him lying in the street for several hours.

When he regained consciousness, Milton declared he was taken to a hospital where one hand was bandaged, but fractures of his jaw and numerous cuts and abrasions were not treated.

Former comrades interested themselves in his case and sent him clothing. This he never received, he said. American Consul E. H. MacCall announced he would report his case to the state department.

BURGLARS ATTEMPT TO ROB CLOTHIERS

A fruitless attempt to burglarize the Valentine Clothing Company's store on Main street some time last night or early this morning was discovered today. A steel safety catch on one side of the upper sash of a rear window prevented the stealing of thousands of dollars worth of clothing and shoes.

In the darkness, it is believed that there were two worked quietly in the darkness of the alley in the rear of the store. A hole was poked through the window pane in the upper sash, giving free access to the lock. Efforts to raise the window were frustrated by the safety lock on one side. The robbers were apparently frightened away before they could work to pry open this lock.

A stairway in the rear of the store made it easy for them to reach the window, which is 10 feet above the ground. Steel marks on the stone window ledge were plainly visible today.

Chief Thomas Morrissey is investigating.

SOCIALISTS CLASH WITH CATHOLICS IN ROME PARLIAMENT

Chamber of Deputies Opens
Amid Great Excitement on Floor.

(By Associated Press.) Rome, Dec. 4.—The chamber of deputies opened yesterday amid great excitement, socialist deputies being present in larger numbers than on Tuesday and all the catholic members appearing in their seats.

Socialist Deputy Treves resumed his protest against what he termed the indignities suffered by his compatriots and declared the representation of the wishes of all parties to understandings reached through which the country was passing.

Catholic Deputy Mauri in reply admitted the situation was serious and deplored reported violences, urging that a union of all parties was necessary to bring about a spirit of pacification.

All Catholics Applaud

All the catholics applauded but the socialists denounced Mauri, crying "long live the pope-king" and the catholics to the pope up to a few years ago in what the anti-clericals charge were his aspirations to restore the temporal power of the church, making himself at the same time pope and king.

At this point, the socialists doubled their applause which took the form of a counter-demonstration against socialist attacks and in support of Signor Mauri's speech, while the socialists shouted "Jesus! Jesus!"

For 10 minutes the session virtually was suspended.

Trial of the $10,000 slander suit brought against John E. Kennedy, president of the fire and police board, by Daniel W. Briggs, former member of the local police force, will start tomorrow in the circuit court here before Judge George Grimm. The case has been set for 9 o'clock, when a new jury panel will be drawn. Charles A. Johnson will represent the plaintiff and the firm of Jeffers, Mount, Oestrich, Avery & Wood, the defendant.

Intense interest surrounds the case. It is expected that a crowded court room will witness the trial.

Briggs brings the charges against Kennedy which he claims have damaged his reputation.

The suit is the outgrowth of difficulty in the local police department during June last. Briggs had been a patrolman but left recently because he was before acting Chief William E. Gower and told to resign.

This action was taken after Kennedy and Harry Nowman, president of the fire and police board, called on Gower and, according to Mayor T. E. Welsh's statement, told him that "Briggs ought to be discharged."

Gower carried out instructions although formal charges were not presented to the fire and police board.

Situation Is Uncertain.

FT. ATKINSON GARAGE FIRE IS $20,000 LOSS

Fort Atkinson, Dec. 4.—Fire, of unknown cause, destroyed the entire interior of a service garage late yesterday afternoon. The loss will probably exceed $20,000. The building was damaged to an extent of about $6,000, fully covered by insurance. Of the 14 cars in the garage at the time, only one was saved. With the exception of four, all the cars were insured.

David Bemus, an employee, was seriously burned in an attempt to extinguish the blaze, and was forced to jump from a window when the flames surrounded him. The intense heat and smoke and the rapidity with which the fire spread prevented the firemen from entering the building to save any autos. In 35 minutes the fire was under control. Mr. Kirby, the proprietor, will rebuild immediately.

NEWS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS

Sports that Make Men Athletics

Volley Ball
By R. S. Alexander

You think nothing good can come out of Germany? But volleyball did. It was invented and first played there.

Volley ball can be played outdoors or in the gym or in a backyard, vacant lot, school yard, or attic. All the equipment required is a net, a couple of posts about 7 1/2 feet high, and a ball a little smaller and about half as heavy as a basket ball.

Set the posts in the ground or on the gym floor about 25 feet apart, stretch out the net between them, the top of it level with the top of the posts. If you can't get a net, make one. Mark out your court about 25 feet wide by 50 feet long. A basket ball will do if that kind of ball described cannot be had.

The game can be played by any number of people from two to a dozen or more. The opposing teams are posted on opposite sides of the court. To start the game one person does not serve. The server places himself with one foot on the back line of the court away from the net.

High School Notes

Too much religion or maybe it was homesickness which caused the students to leave the Sunday school conference at Sheboygan. Those of the class list were Leon Griffey, Robert Grubb, Kenneth Venerable, Robert Bliss, and Robert Jacobs.

Girls' Glee club meeting was not held yesterday because of the class basketball games.

Class spirit had its chance yesterday at the class games to display warming qualities. Coal shortage made the gym heatless.

Senior domestic science girls have assumed charge of the cafeteria. Those who are directing the work for this week are Bernice Drake, Antoinette Clark, Lulu Hamilton, and Grace Cawdon.

Mrs. Helen Taylor was the recipient today of a huge corsage bouquet, sweet peas, roses, sweet William, "everything."

Buster Is Only a Dog but Fights For Life in River

Buster was only a mongrel dog. But he was game to the core and won a battle for his life yesterday afternoon through sheer pluck and "stick-to-itiveness."

Buster Bunting has a perfect foot. The toes are all even. The foot is soft and pink and supple. Baby Bunting is an Alsatian.

Buster's toes are crooked and lap over one another. See how different they look in the picture.

THE GAZETTE'S PLATFORM FOR JANESEVILLE AND ROCK COUNTY.

Community Betterments to which this Newspaper is Pledged.

An adequate and modern hotel.

A community building containing an auditorium, woman's rest room, and memorial hall for soldiers, sailors and nurses.

Traffic regulations which will reduce danger on streets to the minimum.

A street car service which will answer the needs of an increasing population.

Improved streets in the city and better roads in the country.

A survey of the housing situation with a view of discouraging exorbitant rentals for both rooms and houses.

Careful appraisal of property, particularly that of those who have increased their rentals, so that they may pay their fair share of the taxes.

A livestock pavilion at the fair grounds to be used in promoting the county's endeavor to take first place in the state as a stock producing center.

An indoor recreation center in which dances and sporting events may be held.

More parks and playgrounds for use of the entire community.

Protected ice-skating rinks for children.

A SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.

Men and women who have served in the army, navy, or as nurses have an excellent opportunity to receive an education free of charge, even though they cannot take advantage of the courses offered by the state at institutions of learning. We refer to the university-extension course which is placed within the reach of all ex-service men and women.

Those who make application for these courses will not have to sacrifice the $10 per month bonus which is to be paid by the state some time next spring. A wide range of subjects are offered absolutely free of charge so that the man or woman who has to work can acquire an excellent education by expending the mind effort necessary.

It is without doubt one of the finest opportunities for the average fellow, who for some reason has had to give up school before he had rounded out his education, that has ever been presented in this state.

The Gazette has obtained necessary blanks for those who wish to make application for the courses. Those who wish the blanks or any information concerning the courses can get them at this office every week-day.

PROSPERITY? WHY NOT?

Janesville banks show a record-breaking increase in deposits. Never before in the history of the four institutions have such large amounts been totaled up for a year's business.

One of the reasons is that the whole community is prosperous. Everyone seems to have money and plenty of it. Farmers, laboring men, business men and manufacturers have had more money in the last 12 months, as a rule, than ever before. Men on salaries are earning more than they did a few years ago. Naturally the banks would feel the results of this prosperity.

But the general condition does not result entirely from the fact that the average person is earning more money than he ever did. He is saving more. Since prohibition has been in effect, the man who formerly went home with only part of his pay check, now deposits most of it in his bank. The grocer, the butcher, the clothier, the furniture man, the candy man and the movie proprietor get more cash than they did before July 1, because the average man has more left to spend. Accounts which once were hard to collect are in most cases paid promptly. Many of those who had to seek credit to keep their families from want now plunk down the cold cash when they buy.

Some forty saloons have gone out of business in Janesville but one does not hear of any particular drop in the rental figures at which vacant store rooms are held. Try and rent a business place these days, and you will find that you will have to pay a fairly long price and that you will not be allowed any extras.

Another phase of prohibition is the change of mind most of those fellows who shouted loud and lustily for "personal liberty" have felt. Now that booze is difficult to get, those men who thought they could not get along without it, find that it was all bulk. They have found that they can do a better day's work than when they enjoyed their "personal liberty," and they have found that their families are much happier.

The police department is not called upon to handle a bunch of outside drunks every time Saturday night comes around; women and children can pass along the streets without being molested or insulted; and the atmosphere of moral cleanliness which was sadly missing in Janesville a year ago is conspicuous.

In fact Janesville, which was considered one of the wettest spots in the state for a number of years, is getting along fairly well without booze. She can send out a report to her neighbors that her bank deposits are increasing and that the work of her police department is decreasing.

BARTER FAIR OFFERED.

That Germany still fails to recognize that her war makers were guilty of crimes against humanity and are deserving of punishment is in evidence in the latest offering of representatives of the government to bargain for immunity for the war lords. The action is further indicative that the present government, while ostensibly republican, is not so far removed from the influence of the old regime that it will yield, except under pressure, to a court of justice the men who by their atrocities made the German name a synonym for cruelty and inhuman treatment.

While the old order at present is in the shadow, it seems by no means to be powerless, else the effort of the German protocol commission to use the delay of the United States in acting on the peace treaty as an excuse for proposing that the allies drop the demand for the surrender of those wanted for trial would not have been made, so flimsy is the pretext. Those who fear punishment are powerful enough to compel a government supposedly inimical to them, to speak in their behalf goes far to show that the change in government is in form rather than in essential principle. There have been other evidences that the Junkers were not entirely down and out, but hitherto the government heads have maintained an apparent aloofness from such movements.

How the allies would put these men on trial under law if they had them has not been made clear. Perhaps they would not be tried at all, but that is not the point. That Germany, even under a professed democratic form of government, should be so concerned to protect the men mainly responsible for the evils that now af-

LIFE'S HARDEST TASK.

It is no easy task to be a little fellow's doting dad; sometimes the duty seems to me. The biggest job man ever had. To cut away a mountain ridge Or sweep a river from its bed Or close a chasm with a bridge Or which a man may safely tread, Are works stupendous, but I hold That these the skillful mind can plan; But he must needs be wise to mold A little boy into a man.

The engineer can calculate Precisely what his steel will bear. The builder knows the very weight That rests upon his girders there. But who can read the wrong from right And sift the good from all the bad So that a man of truth and might Shall blossom from a little lad?

One careless word or thoughtless deed Which he may chance to hear or see May in the future be the seed Of ruin and its misery.

There is so much that he must learn— So many things that he must know. At every little bend and turn He must be taught the way to go.

With all that we can know and see The biggest task man's ever had Since life began, has been to be The father of a little lad.

flict the nation, may be taken as indicative that there has been less change of heart on the part of the German people than external evidence might signify. The disposition toicker and quibble gives rise to the suspicion that the sudden conversion to republican ideas and the overthrow of monarchy were the result of necessity rather than an exhibition of principle dormant under the restraint of the empire, but ready to awake when opportunity permitted. The Germans may know, they were defeated, but they make it apparent that they intend to escape every particle of reparation that they can avoid by means of objection, complaint or barter.

SALUTATION SEASONABLE.

O autumn paradoxical Best season of the year. When coat begins to boom in price, We know you're very near. We hall your rains and biting winds With loud exultant cry. For now the flocks begin to duck— The ducks begin to fly. Trees pack their wardrobes in their trunks. They heed the winter's call. For ere the fall begins to fail, The leaves begin to fall. Now salutes and gridiron cakes, And oysters are in line. And now it is your pine for pork— But not for pork-a-pine. Os glean again the fodder fields, And pile the pumpkins high. WILLIE CUTS HIS THUMB.

One moving picture theater in a tenement district near the Bowery has mastered this problem in an extremely novel way. It runs a "no smoking" rule in its lobby and projection room in connection with its films, which guarantees to keep the patrons advised of what is going on in their homes. In the middle of a romantic picture, for instance, an entirely irrelevant piece of news may be flashed on the screen.

Levitt states that the man is in the house, or perhaps Mrs. Levitt is notified that she must go home at once—Willie has cut his thumb.

Once day a slapstick comedy was interrupted just in the midst of a standard pugilistic battle for the star of information: "Michael Cohen—You have just been made the proud father of a son. Go home." For a time the audience forgot to watch the picture, but instead, Michael, who ran with a proud but pushing baby carriage and read gratulations of his neighbors all the way down the aisle.

Outside the manager of the theater was pacing rapidly back and forth pushing his baby carriage and reading a newspaper.

HAD TO HAVE AUDIENCES.

"Yes, it's a good idea," he admitted when questioned concerning his home service department. "We had a hard time getting mothers to come to the show in the afternoon until we started it. We have found that they have plenty of time to come in the afternoons, so we have just decided to make the home worries our problem. If we didn't, we wouldn't have any audience."

He stopped talking suddenly, gazed off into space a moment, and then continued: "In the case of the projection room: 'Mrs. Levy's Projector and Morris' are fighting in front of the sweet potato stand."

While this sort of service could be carried on in a small theater, the lobby, with babies, the baby-checking service can be installed almost anywhere with good results. The idea is becoming so popular that many exhibitors have already been embarrassed by demands for such service.

Now most of the large moving picture companies which are now completing building new theaters are including nurseries in their plans.

The latest plan is for a nursery with several trained nurses who, in taking care of the offspring of the afternoon, will be able to look after the babies.

AGED MAN IS KICKED AND ROBBED OF $120 BY TWO ASSAILANTS

Information in regard to a daring holdup in the Third ward last Friday night was furnished the police for the first time yesterday afternoon. An investigation was being made today.

W. L. Campbell, 79, the victim of the holdup, lies in his room with a broken rib at the home of W. L. Blount, 447 Madison street. Despite his advanced age he is expected to recover.

Mr. Campbell recounted what he knew of the affair to police yesterday afternoon. He said he was walking west on Oakdale avenue toward Main street shortly after 6 o'clock Friday evening in a blinding blizzard when a thug darted from an alley and grabbed him, throwing him to the snow.

Upon shouting for help the taller of the two men viciously kicked him in the left side, bursting a rib and causing unconsciousness.

Campbell declared he must have lain in the snow for at least 15 minutes before regaining his senses, when he arose and managed to hobble to Main street where he boarded a street car to the First ward. He was then exhausted when he finally reached the Blount home where he has been staying during his three weeks in the city.

He could furnish little information in regard to his assailants, other than that he thought he had seen one of them in a local barbershop house while he was showing money in making a purchase. The theory is held that he had been followed by the youthful holdups.

He explained that he did not report it to the police because he did not want his son in Great Falls, Mont., to learn of his physical condition, he might worse add to his condition.

Mr. Campbell's home is in Orwego, N. Y., where he owns a farm. He said he came here to search for his 85-year-old sister, Mrs. Flora Dix, whom he has not seen since she moved to Janesville. Despite three weeks spent here he has been unable to find her although he is positive from what information he has gained that she is living here.

The aged man says he ran a general store on South Main street and later the old Hyatt house here a number of years ago. He also lived in Johnstown Center. His brother ran a flour mill in Monterey for many years. Mr. Campbell says he worked with the late Ellis Wheeler Wilson on a San Francisco newspaper at one time.

NEGRO PROBLEM TOPIC OF ATHENA CLASS

An interesting program on the negro problem was given at the meeting of the Athena class yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter Helms, South Main street. The afternoon's program was in charge of Mrs. S. C. Nease. She read a story of the experiences of a white officer in the last war who was placed in charge of a platoon of negro soldiers.

Mrs. W. E. Clinton gave a paper on "The Negro Problem," Mrs. F. H. Ryan one on "The Education of the Negro Children"; Mrs. F. J. Lowth spoke on the radicals; Mrs. S. B. Buckmaster considered the exodus of the negro population from the south and the means used to bring it. Mr. M. A. Dickey spoke on the condition of the south when the southern labor leaves the cotton fields for the higher wages paid in the north.

Mrs. S. C. Burnham enlarged on the opportunity the negro has in the north and urged fair play in the treatment of him. Mrs. A. Field and Mrs. W. W. Wool spoke briefly of the unfair conditions surrounding them in northern cities, and Mrs. Helms gave an account of the policy of the Fairbanks Morse company. Pardon, in handling the negro workers.

Miss Elizabeth Paterson assisted Mrs. Helms in entertaining. Light refreshments were served. The next meeting will have a Christmas program and will be held with Mrs. H. Faust.

WOMEN ROOMERS ENJOY REST CENTER

The shortage of coal and the extreme cold weather have caused many women of the city who live in crowded and unheated rooms to make the Janesville Center temporary home during the afternoons. It was reported at the meeting of the board of directors of the Federation of Women held at the center this morning. Many women have formed a habit of bringing their children along with them to enjoy the home-like conditions of the rest room.

Women's organizations are also making frequent use of the rooms. It was reported during the past few weeks 16 girls' parties have been held there, said Miss Mabel Greenman in her report on the increased use of the center. Revenue from the kitchenette, 40 to 50 women taking their noonday luncheon at the center, is paying for its current expenses.

All officers of the organization were present at the meeting. Reports were given by Mrs. Louis Amerson, secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Patterson, treasurer.

"Storage Coal" Adds to Joys of Fast Traveling

(BY MORRIS ROOD)
Janesville residents who have had occasion to travel either the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul or the Northwestern road during the past week are firmly convinced as to the exact meaning of "storage coal."

They know what it is, what it does, more likely however, they will tell you what it does not do. And all express an individual opinion of the inefficiency of that product. Trains on both roads have been from 50 minutes to 5 hours late every day during the past week all because of "storage coal."

"Storage coal," so called by railroads, is an inferior grade of coal. Large amounts came into the possession of the railroads at one time and huge quantities were either discarded, or put in reserve bins as a most undesirable commodity. Present conditions demand the use of "storage coal." So it is that the travelling public has become acquainted with that term.

Quantities of this coal were piled along railroad tracks entering the terminals throughout the country and had previously been used for yard-angle consumption only. Exposed to all weather conditions in this way, its value for firing pur-

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty-six years old and have been married two years to a man twelve years my senior. I have three small children. My husband and I have never gotten along very well. I have been "satisfied" with him, but have always tried to be until this fall when I found my true lover, whom I care more for when I married, is still in love with me.

How can I win her love back? She is seventeen years of age.

DISAPPOINTED SAMMY.

It is a waste of effort to try to win back love. Love goes where it will, and cannot be forced or retained. Both you and the girl are very young. Doubtless she will care for many more men before she marries and you will care for other girls.

If you try to forget and make new friends, you will soon find yourself happy again.

Books make acceptable gifts for everybody. It is not difficult to interest books for some friends. Let me select a number of books along this line for your consideration.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of about nine, have been going with a boy here in my town whom I go with occasionally and I have been with him three or four times since I began to go with the other fellow. I do not love this boy, but he is of good character and has a big car. He gives me a nice time and I enjoy his company very much.

My fellow does not like to have me go with him and says he is going to stop coming to see me if I do not stop going with this other fellow. I do not love your own little ones you will not love mine.

Many women who have made such a change have ruined their lives by doing so. "Don't change your husband," would be the advice these women would give you.

Let love for your children and your duty to them be stronger than selfishness, and you will earn happiness in the end.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

What did I write last? Oh, yes, about Eric Sands putting his upsetting question, "Do you love your husband?"

I reply to Eric's query, I must answer my own heart and be sure of myself. That is what troubles me. And any one asked me a year ago on the eve of my marriage to Jim, "Do you love him?" I should indignantly have resented the idea being cast upon the man I had been casting out upon the world.

"Love is such a confused word. Everything is confused with it—envy, pride, ambition, passion, curiosity, and a hundred other emotions that crowd against a girl's heart without her realizing it. Oh, for some one to tell me all un-fallingly tell us when love is love, and not some subtle imitation!

Most marriages are hap-hazard. A man is attracted to you. His personality is pleasant. His character viewed superficially as a girl must view it because of her limited opportunities and surroundings. You are young; you love love. You want to be chosen. Imagination and the thrill of young blood do the rest.

That was the way I married. Yet we were both sincere. We did the best we knew. The best we could know under the circumstances. But most people we had to leave the outcome to chance.

I must say for Jim that he is a man of character. He has splendid qualities—courtness, honesty, industry, tenderness, determination. But qualities depend for their successful working out upon the qualities they come in contact with.

Cleanliness sometimes becomes compromised under strong temptation.

Books make acceptable gifts for everybody. It is not difficult to interest books for some friends. Let me select a number of books along this line for your consideration.

Bookstores have or will promptly obtain these books for you, if you do not care to order them from publishers:

For a philosophical or scientific friend, even a doctor or medical student: Bodily Changes in Pain, Hunger, Fear and Rage, by Professor W. B. Cannon (Harvard), D. Appleton & Co., New York. The New Gluttony or Pleasure, by Horace Fletcher, F. A. Stokes, New York.

For women and girls who want to be well and strong: Personal Hygiene and Physical Training for Girls and Women, by Dr. Anna G. Griffith, W. B. Saunders Co., Philadelphia.

For young men: How to Live, by Jim Woods, the original husband for "sweaty" feminine wife. I would make an ideal wife for a man with a sympathetically modern viewpoint—an artist-radical, a man who makes more of a study of humanity (including women) than of the trick market. Woods is a man of the world, a man in a thatched-roof cottage in a picturesque corner of the world than in a perfectly equipped smelling plant. A man who could get deeper thrill from 5-cent ferry ride across New York Bay at night than from a million-dollar dinner. A man who can see that happiness consists in having what you want, not in possessing things of intrinsic value. A man, in short, who loves

DAUGHTER OF STAGE FAVORITES TO WED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

London, (By Mail).—The engagement of Mrs. Pamela Congreve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude, to Major William Fraser, has just been announced. Mrs. Congreve is the widow of Captain William Congreve, the only son of Sir Walter and Lady Congreve, who was killed in the war after winning the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order, and the Military Cross.

Major Fraser, to whom she is now engaged, is the best man at her first wedding, and is the son of Lord and Lady Saltoun.

Mr. and Mrs. Maude, Mrs. Congreve's parents, are well known in America, where both are stage favorites and where they have a wide social acquaintance.

When the men on the sailing vessel saw that they were surprised, too, and happy.

While we were firing at the natives the sailors were cheering and yelling at a great rate. When the last of the natives had reached the beach we ran the submarine over to the little ship and climbed up onto its deck.

When we found out what had caused the trouble, the sailors had scattered away with two small canons the ship carried. The sailors knew little about the gun.

The guns themselves were old and rusty, so they were having a hard time. The natives were swarming closer and closer to the boat when we bobbed up.

"We remained with the little sailing vessel until the wind came up enough to carry them away from Japan—and finally got there."

had stopped along the shore of the island to collect coral. What is coral? Well, it's a hard substance of limestone found on the ocean bottom along the shores of some islands. That's about as near as I can tell you. The coral is used to make necklaces, curings, bracelets and all sorts of ornaments.

When the crew of the boat climbed into rowboats, rowed near the natives, who began diving down into the water to get the coral, the corals became angry. They never had seen anyone hunt for coral before and didn't know what the crew was collecting, but they saw the men hunting something away in the rowboats and decided that the men must be pirates. So the natives had called their warriors together and attacked the sailors. When the sailors saw the natives piling into their canoes, carrying big shields and bows and arrows, the sailors hurriedly rowed back to the ship. They would have sailed away before the natives could have reached them, but the wind had died down so completely that there wasn't enough air stirring to move the boat. So the sailors knew that their only hope was to drive the natives away with two small canons the ship carried. The sailors knew little about the gun.

want to transport them up the river." "I can't do that," she insisted. "He could not help himself. He needed to get away quickly, and there were no other means available. He could only hope to connect later with some craft southbound on which to return."

"You may be right," I admitted, impelled yet not wholly convinced.

"What can we do?"

She locked up at me reproachfully.

"You should not ask that of a girl."

The words stung me.

"No; this is my task. I was thoughtlessly cruel. Neither can we remain here long enough to treat those bodies. It would be inhuman not to do that. Sam, there is an old spade leaning against the cabin wall—go over and get it."

He started on his mission reluctantly enough, glancing constantly backward over his shoulder to insure himself of our presence and carefully avoiding any approach to the open door.

Unpleasant as our task was, it proved to be less difficult of accomplishment than I had anticipated.

There were blankets in the bunks, and in these we layed the bodies, and though the task was heavy, however, for me to transport alone, and I required some threatening to induce Sam to give me the assistance necessary to deposit them in the shallow grave. Only the fear that I would not have him with us once I had compelled his joining me.

He was more frightened at the thought of being isolated than of contact with the dead. Sam filled in the loose earth, rounding it into form, and the two of us stood above the fresh mound, our bent heads bared to the sunlight, while I endeavored to repeat brokenly a few words of prayer. Some first necessity was for the sake of this I found a fair supply, and compelling Sam to assist me, we hastily prepared a warm meal over the open fire. It was eaten without, no one of us desiring to remain in the midst of that scene of death, and the very knowledge that the dread duty was complete and that we were now free to depart brought to all of us renewed courage.

It scarcely seemed probable that one man alone or even two men, had committed this crime, and the sole survivor disappeared completely with the prisoners. I had turned each of us over and over in my thoughts while I worked, yet to but little purpose. The only present solution of the problem seemed to be our return to that hidden basin where our boat lay, and then remaining there in concealment until the darkness of another night rendered it safe to once more venture forth.

I spoke of this to her, as I finally approached where she rested on the stump, eager and glad to escape from all memory of that sombre cabin I had just left.

"You—you are no longer so confused," she said; "your plan has failed?"

"I am afraid it has," I admitted, "for it was based altogether on the assistance of Amos Shrunk. He is no longer alive, and I do not know where to turn for guidance. Here would seem to be danger in every direction; the only question is—in what way lies the least?"

"You begin to regret your attempt to aid me?"

"No," impulsively. "So far as that goes I would do it all over again. Your safety means more to me now than ever before—you must believe that."

"Why should I? All I have brought you is trouble. I can read in your face how discouraged you are. You must not think I do not understand. I do understand—perfectly. What you have done has been only a response to impulse: merely undertaken through a spirit of adventure. Amos—Sam and I went to what ever is before us. It is nothing to you."

"You actually believe I would consent to that?" I asked startled surprise at the vehemence of her words. "That I could prove such a..."

"But why not? It would not be a cowardly act at all. I could not blame you, for I have no claim on your service—never have had. You have done a thousand times too much already; you have risked your honor, reputation and prestige to aid my escape; and—I am nothing to you—can be nothing."

"Nothing to me?"

"Certainly not. Why speak like that? Have you forgotten again that I am a slave—a negress? Think Lieutenant Knox what it would mean to him to be caught by my company; to be overtaken while attempting to assist me in escaping from my master. Now no one dreams of such a thing, and no one ever need dream. You have had your adventures; let it end here. I shall be grateful to you always, but—but I cannot bear to drag you deeper into this."

"You order me to leave you?"

"I cannot order; I am a slave. My only privilege is to request, urge, implore. I can merely insist that it will be best—best for us both—for you to go. Sir, you also must realize this is true?"

"You have been brooding over all this," I said gently, "sitting here alone, and thinking while we worked. I am not going to answer you now. There is no need. Nothing can be done until night, whatever we decide upon, you will go back with us to the boat."

"You order me to leave you?"

"I cannot order; I am a slave. My only privilege is to request, urge, implore. I can merely insist that it will be best—best for us both—for you to go. Sir, you also must realize this is true?"

"There are two sides to every question," remarked the ready-made philosopher.

"There two sides to a hickory nut," rejoined Farmer Corntassel; "an outside and an inside, but only one of 'em is worth payin' any attention to."

Grand Rapids—A city market where farmers and producers may bring their wares and produce and be assured of disposing of them at the current market prices is proposed for this city and county. It will have been named by the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club to draw up the plans. If the plans are worked out numerous buildings and equipment as well as capital will be required to take care of the products that will be brought here by the farmers.
